

Majority of multinationals yet to achieve one single source of payroll truth of global organisations are using multiple payroll systems

Leading to:

of respondents still manage payroll via manual processes only

...despite more than

...less than

“This research shows that, staggeringly, most global organisations have not yet woken up to the fact that ineffective payroll systems are eating into business profit by increasing both cost and complexity.”

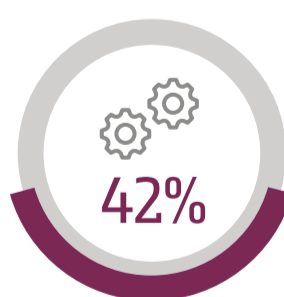

Thierry Vanbever, Director Global Services and Solutions at SD Worx.

Key issues a payroll professional faces working in a multinational organisation payroll accuracy

56% of respondents admitted to having problems with payroll accuracy across different geographic markets

high service level

42% cited inconsistencies with the provision of high service level as a top concern

the cost

34% indicated that payroll costs were too high partner management

29% considered time-consuming partner management as a key issue

reporting capabilities

20% indicated a lack of international reporting capabilities

We at SD Worx are very interested in hearing your views and experience. Please write to us at WeAreGlobal@sdworx.com.